WALSH®

On behalf of Walsh, welcome to the 44th annual Economic and Business History Society Conference and welcome to Detroit! It is exciting to host such a diverse gathering of thought leaders and educators. Many of you traveled from across the globe, and we are honored to have you with us.

Detroit has a rich history of manufacturing and innovation, and so it is fitting that this year's conference, with its theme, Manufacturing in the City, is being held in our city during a time of significant growth and promise.

You will, no doubt, be inspired by the thought-provoking research, presentations, and discussions you will experience over the next few days. It is also our hope that when you return home, you will remember Detroit as a place of energy, perseverance, courage, and strength of character.

Enjoy the conference and enjoy Detroit.

Marsha Kelliher, J.D., LL.M.

45th Annual Conference

Atlanta, Georgia – May 28-30, 2020

Call for Papers

The 45th Economic and Business History Society (EBHS) Annual Conference will be held in Atlanta, Georgia at the Sheraton Atlanta Downtown. Individual proposals for presentations on any aspect of economic, business, or financial history are welcome, as are proposals for whole panels. We also encourage submissions from graduate students and non-academic affiliates.

Atlanta is in many ways the capital city of the southern United States. It has a long history as a crossroads, either for railroads, highways, or airways. The city boasts some of the most iconic Civil Rights Era landmarks and museums. It is well known for its wonderful music scene, collegiate and professional sports, and amazing food of all types, not just southern.

Proposals should include an abstract of no more than 500 words and contact details. The deadline for submission of proposals is January 15, 2020. The Program Chair will send a notification of acceptance of abstracts by February 1, 2020. Online registration will be available soon after at www.ebhsoc.org. Proposals may be submitted through the EBHS website or by email to the program chair and/or the President.

If you have further questions about the meeting or organization please contact Program Chair Craig McMahon craig.mcmahon@villanova.edu or EBHS 2020 President Simon Mollan simon.mollan@york.ac.uk.

Essays in Economic and Business History

Essays in Economic and Business History is the journal of the Economic and Business History Society. First published in 1976, and annually since 1983, Essays now operates as an on-line open access journal with a print issue to coincide with the Society's annual conference. A copy of this year's issue is included in your conference pack and we hope you find it interesting and enjoyable reading.

We aim to publish high-quality research from all areas of economic and business history, including articles in related disciplines such as financial, labor, management, organizational, and social history. We welcome both empirical and non-empirical research, as well as pieces that, despite their high level of scholarship, may not fit nicely into the usual boxes valued by other outlets in economic or business history. We welcome submissions from scholars at all career stages.

Submissions to the journal are subject to a double-blind review process and we strive to make initial decisions within 10 weeks of submission. Essays provides open access to its content on the principle that making research freely available supports a greater global exchange of knowledge. In this spirit, accepted articles awaiting the next print issue are made available on-line as soon as the editorial process is completed.

Essays is listed by Cabell's International directory, the Directory of Open Access Journals, the AEA's EconLit, EBSCO's Historical Abstracts, and entered the UK's Chartered Association of Business Schools' Academic Journal Guide as a '2' in 2018.

Thanks to the generous financial support of the Society, Grand Valley State University (GVSU), and the Seidman College of Business at GVSU, no fees of any kind are required from readers or authors.

We are here at the conference and would be pleased to discuss your publication plans with you.
