Perspectives in Economic and Social History (Routledge)

Series Editors: Andrew August and Jari Eloranta

The series deals with aspects of social and economic history worldwide from the early modern period into the twentieth century. It incorporates titles organized around the following principal thematic areas: landholding patterns; poverty and welfare; demography and family history; consumption; medicine; industrialization, including occupational structures; urbanization and the urban environment; trade; and micro-histories. Books in the series offer reappraisals of the interaction of economy and society at the level of nation state, region, community and family.

Markets and Governments in Economic History
(University of Chicago Press)

Series Editor: Price V. Fishback

Books in the Markets and Governments in Economic History series examine the roles states and markets play in the development of the institutions that fostered social and economic growth in the United States and around the world throughout history. Each book in the series combines narrative with quantitative analysis to offer an illuminating and authoritative account. Especially appropriate for the series are works that synthesize theoretical methods and historical evidence to develop new ways to interpret the past and to examine modern institutions. Among the topics that are of interest are:

- The successes and failures of government regulation of markets
- The roles played by market decision makers in determining government policies
- The changes in the roles played by courts, legislators, and administrators in influencing markets
- The shifting roles of local, state, and federal governments over time

The Journal of Economic History

Editor(s):
Paul W. Rhode, University of Michigan, USA
Ann Carlos, University of Colorado, Boulder, USA

Published for the Economic History Association

The Journal of Economic History is devoted to the multidisciplinary study of history and economics, and is of interest not only to economic historians but to social and demographic historians, as well as economists in general. The JOURNAL has broad coverage, in terms of both methodology and geographic scope. Topics covered include money and banking, trade, manufacturing, technology, transportation, industrial organization, labor, agriculture, servitude, demography, education, economic growth, and the role of government and regulation. In addition, an extensive book review section keeps readers informed about the latest work in economic history and related fields.

Forthcoming Articles in the June 2016 Issue:

Robert A. Margo, “Obama, Katrina, and the Persistence of Racial Inequality.”

Olivier Accominotti and David Chambers, “If You’re So Smart: John Maynard Keynes and Currency Speculation in the Interwar Years.”

Alan G. Green and David A. Green, “Immigration and the Canadian Earnings Distribution in the First Half of the Twentieth Century.”

Joshua K. Hausman, “What Was Bad for General Motors Was Bad for America: The Automobile Industry and the 1937/38 Recession.”

Marco Casari and Maurizio Lisciandra, “Gender Discrimination in Property Rights: Six Centuries of Commons Governance in the Alps.”

Call for Papers
42nd Annual Conference
Oklahoma City, OK
May 25-27, 2017

The Economic and Business History Society (EBHS) is now accepting proposals for our 42nd Annual Conference, to be held at the historic Skirvin Hotel in downtown Oklahoma City. Proposals for presentations on any aspect of ancient to recent economic or business history are welcome, as are proposals for whole panels. We welcome submissions from graduate students and non-academic affiliates.

The EBHS conference offers participants the opportunity for intellectual interchange with an international, interdisciplinary, and collegial group of scholars (typically about half our participants are from economics departments and half are from history or economic history departments). The EBHS prides itself on its openness to new members and we offer reduced conference fees for graduate students and early career researchers (four years or less since doctorate earned). Our regular registration fees are reasonable, as is the cost of accommodation at the conference venue.
In addition to the sessions, there will be some activities that should be of interest to all participants. The Skirvin is located next to the Bricktown section of Oklahoma City and is known for its unique shops and restaurants. Oklahoma City is also home to a world class zoo and the National Cowboy and Western Heritage Museum. There is also the opportunity to see Bricktown Ball Park and perhaps to catch a minor league game.

Proposals should include an abstract of no more than 500 words and contact details. The deadline for submission of proposals is February 15, 2017. The Program Chair will send a notification of acceptance of abstracts by March 1, 2017. Online registration will be available soon at and proposals may likewise be submitted through the EBHS website at www.ebhsoc.org.

If you have further questions about the meeting or organization please contact Program Chair Vincent Geloso, vincentgeloso@hotmail.com, or EBHS President Fred Gates, fred.gates@swosu.edu.

EBHS also operates a peer-reviewed open access journal, Essays in Economic and Business History, edited by Jason Taylor (Central Michigan University). Conference papers and non-conference papers alike may be submitted to Essays for consideration. We invite you to visit our website, http://www.ebhsoc.org/journal/ to see our editorial board and policies, submit a paper, and view back issues.

We look forward to welcoming you to Oklahoma City!

EBHS hosts Economic and Business History News, an open access Facebook forum which publishes news, and calls for papers, related to economic and business history (www.facebook.com/EBHSNews). Its mission is to promote the fields of economic and business history and disseminate information about relevant events in the profession.
