Editor’s Notes

I want to thank all the scholars who submitted their work to Essays over the last year. EEHB received 23 new submissions since April 2013. We also had seven submissions still pending from last year. Of these 30 papers, a decision was reached on 25 (with the other five still pending). Five papers were accepted, and appear here, while the remaining 20 were rejected, for an acceptance rate of 20 percent. The average time between submission and initial decision was 45 days, in keeping with our goal of getting back to authors as quickly as possible.

The editors are pleased to announce the creation of a new annual award tied to the journal—The James Soltow Award for Best Paper Published in Essays. This will come with a $1,000 cash prize and will replace the current award structure we have in place.

The Economic and Business History Society is also pleased to announce the creation of two new awards that will be tied to papers presented at the organization’s annual conference: The Fred Bateman Award for Best Paper Presented at the Economic and Business History Society Conference, and The Lynne Pierson Doti Award for Best Paper Presented by a Graduate Student at the Economic and Business History Society Conference. Each of these awards will come with a $500 cash prize.

I want to sincerely thank the following individuals who generously provided their time and talent by serving as referees for EEBH in the last two years (we publish this list only every two years to ensure anonymity). I am so grateful to have such a high-quality group of reviewers. Your hard work is appreciated!

Pablo Martín Aceña, University of Alcalá
Jeremy Atack, Vanderbilt University
Ben Baack, Ohio State University
Thomas Barfield, Boston University
Erik Benson, Cornerstone University
Mark Billings, University of Exeter
Editor’s Notes

Dan Bogart, University of California-Irvine
Thomas Boston, Georgia Institute of Technology
Loren Brandt, University of Toronto
Jamie Bronstein, New Mexico State University
Sue Bruley, University of Portsmouth
Paul Carlson, Texas Tech University
Filipe Castro, Texas A&M University
Peter A. Coclanis, University of North Carolina
David Colander, Middlebury College
Wendell Cox, Demographia
Stephanie Crofton, High Point University
Jennifer Delton, Skidmore College
Craig A. Depken II, University of North Carolina, Charlotte
Ranjit S. Dighe, State University of New York at Oswego
John Dove, Troy University
Kevin Dowd, Durham University Business School
Barry Eichengreen, University of California, Berkeley
Jari Eloranta, Appalachian State University
Michael Ezra, Sonoma State University
Laura Fair, Michigan State University
Anne Fleming, Harvard University
Neil Forbes, Coventry University
Daniel Giedeman, Grand Valley State University
Helen Glew, University of Westminster
James Richard Hill, Central Michigan University
James Hoopes, Babson College
Douglas Irwin, Dartmouth College
James R. Irwin, Central Michigan University
Samuel Kalman, St. Francis Xavier University
Akbar Keshodkar, Zayed University
Edward Kosack, University of Colorado, Boulder
Moramay Lopez-Alonso, Rice University
Lin Man-houng, National Taiwan Normal University
Editor’s Notes

Randy McFerrin, New Mexico State University
Frank McIntyre, Rutgers University
Allan Meltzer, Carnegie Mellon University
Jari Ojala, University of Jyväskyla
Dimitri Papadimitriou, Bard College
Gary Pecquet, Central Michigan University
Robin Pearson, University of Hull
James Piereson, William E. Simon Foundation
Jared Rubin, Chapman University
Bert Spector, Northeastern University
John Strachan, Lancaster University
Daniel Swan, University of Portsmouth
Scott B. Sumner, Bentley University
William Thomas, University of Nebraska-Lincoln
Janice Traflet, Bucknell University
Nuno Valério, Technical University of Lisbon
Patrick Van Horn, New College of Florida
Mark Wilson, University of North Carolina at Charlotte
David Wheelock, Federal Reserve of Saint Louis
Abigail York, Arizona State University
David Zalewski, Providence College

Finally, the Economic and Business History Society thanks Central Michigan University’s College of Business for generous financial support toward the publication and production of the journal.

Jason E. Taylor
Editor-in-Chief
Essays in Economic & Business History
April 2014

160
EBHS PRESIDENT’S REPORT 2013

By Ranjit Dighe, EBHS President, 2012-2013

The 2014 EBHS Conference in Baltimore, Maryland on May 23-25 was a great success. We had over 100 registrants and 83 papers presented, including a stellar keynote speech by Louis Galambos of Johns Hopkins, which is reprinted in this volume. Participants came from four continents, and local participation was strong as well.

The conference was held in the spectacular Grand Historic Venue, formerly a Masonic temple. For our annual field trip, the group took a tour of Oriole Park at Camden Yards. Other excursions included an Orioles game, crab cakes at Lexington Market, and dinners at top-rated area restaurants.

We are greatly indebted to the State University of New York at Oswego and the University of Buckingham for their financial support, including the beautiful conference program prepared by SUNY Oswego Publications; Olli Turunen for the new EBHS website; our vendors: Cambridge University Press, The Johns Hopkins University Press, The Liberty Fund, Pickering & Chatto, and The University of Chicago Press; Lauren Flaig and Sharon Tietjens of the Tremonts; d. Morales of Visit Baltimore; our student assistants, Tim James and Christine Magruder; and all of our panel chairs and discussants.

I hope to see you at our 2014 conference in Manchester.