Aims and Scope

EEBH publishes high-quality research from all aspects of economic and business history. We welcome both empirical and non-empirical research, as well as pieces that, despite their high level of scholarship, may not fit nicely into the usual boxes valued by other outlets in economic or business history.

Essays in Economic & Business History

Articles are published on-line as they are accepted at <https://www.ebhsoc.org/journal/index.php/ebhs/index> and then compiled into an annual volume.

Information for Authors

EEBH is a double-blind, peer-reviewed journal. Submissions are usually sent to at least two reviewers. We strive to make a decision within 10 weeks of submission. Initial submissions may be in any style. Accepted articles must conform to our style guidelines, which are available on our website. Initial submissions should be made electronically at <https://www.ebhsoc.org/journal/index.php/ebhs/about/submissions>. For more information contact the editors Dan Giedeman (giedemad@gvsu.edu) and Mark Billings (m.billings@exeter.ac.uk).

Subscription Information

Individuals subscribe to the journal by becoming members of the Economic and Business History Society. The membership rate for 2020 is $30. Visit <http://ebhsoc.org/membership/> to join. For institutional subscriptions, please contact John Moore, Secretary-Treasurer, at (jmoore1@walshcollege.edu).
